

Introduction

The Equal Status Act, 2000:

- Promotes Equality
- Prohibits certain kinds of discrimination (with some exceptions)
- Prohibits Sexual Harassment and Harassment (on the discriminatory grounds). This covers people who:

Buy goods

Use services

Obtain accommodation

Attend educational establishments

Clubs which discriminate may lose their license to sell alcohol

The gender ground: A man, a woman or a transsexual

The marital status ground: Single, married, separated, divorced or widowed

The family status ground: Pregnant or the resident primary carer The sexual orientation ground: Gay, lesbian or bisexual

The religion ground: Different religious belief, background outlook or none

The age ground: Different ages (this does not cover people under 18)
The disability ground: This is broadly defined including people with physical, intellectual, learning, cognitive or emotional disabilities and a range of medical conditions

The race ground: A particular race, skin colour, nationality or ethnic origin

The Traveller community ground: People who are commonly called Travellers.

There are several significant exceptions in the Act — the most important is that anything mandated by an Act of the Oireachtas or EU law is allowed.These exceptions should be read restrictively and should not be allowed to unduly restrict the general prohibition on discrimination.

Discrimination happens when, on any of the discriminatory grounds which are there now or:

- which wet-e there in the past or;
- which existed but is no longer present or;
- which may be there in the future or;
- which is imputed to the person concerned,

a person:

- is treated less favourably;
- was treated less favourably;
- would be treated less favourably than another person.

There are several types of discrimination – direct. indirect, discrimination by ossociotion.

- Direct Discrimination happens where a person is treated less favourably specifically on one of the discriminatory grounds.
- Indirect Discrimination is more subtle and harder to prove and happens where there is less favourable treatment in effect. It happens where people are refused a service not explicitly on account of a discriminatory reason but because of a practice or requirement which they find hard to satisfy. If the practice or requirement is found to have the effect of excluding a large amount of the protected group from the service, then the service provider will have indirectly discriminated, if the practice or requirement is not reasonable.

 Discrimination by Association – this happens where a person associated with another person (belonging to the specified groups) is treated less favourably because of that association.

People with disabilities have special needs as regards antidiscrimination measures. A person selling goods or providing services, a person selling or letting accommodation or providing accommodation, educational institutions and clubs must do all that is reasonable to accommodate the needs of a person with a disability by providing special treatment or facilities in circumstances where without these, it would be impossible or unduly difficult to avail of the goods, services, accommodation etc.

However, they are not obliged to provide special facilities or treatment when this costs more than what is called a nominal cost. What amounts to nominal cost will depend on the circumstances of each case. If the State provides grants or aids for assisting in providing special treatment or facilities, there may be an onus on the service providers etc. to avail of these grants.

Sexual harassment/ harassment

A person ("the harasser") shall not harass or sexually harass another person ("the victim") in the following circumstances.

- (i) the victim uses goods or services provided by the harasser (or seeks to);
- (ii) the victim obtains, or proposes to obtain, accommodation or related services from the harasser;
- (iii) the victim is a student at, or has applied for admission to, or seeks to avail of any services offered by an educational establishment at which the harasser is in a position of authority.

What is sexual harassment?

It takes place where a person subjects the victim to an act of physical intimacy or any request for sexual favours from the victim, or subjects the victim to any act or conduct with sexual connotations, including spoken words, gestures or the production, display or circulation of written words, pictures or other material.

To constitute sexual harassment the actions must:

- (a) be unwelcome to the victim and could reasonably be regarded as offensive, humiliating or intimidating, or
- (b) the victim must be treated differently because of the rejection of or submission to such actions or where it would reasonably be anticipated that the victim would be so treated but was not in fact so.

This harassment is like sexual harassment but without the sexual connotation. The harassment must be based on one of the discriminatory grounds. The Act does not deal with all forms of bullying but only bullying that relates to a discriminatory ground. Harassment takes place where a person subjects the victim to any unwelcome act, request or conduct including spoken words, gestures or the production, display or circulation of written words, pictures or other material which is based on any discriminatory ground and which could reasonably be regarded as offensive, humiliating or intimidating to the victim

A pet-son who is responsible for the operation of any place that is an educational institution, or a pet-son who provides accommodation or where goods or services are offered to the public is under a duty to take steps to ensure that another person who has a right to be there, or is there to buy goods or services does not suffer sexual or other harassment. Employers are responsible for sexual harassment and harassment perpetrated by staff, unless s/he took reasonable measures to prevent the harassment or sexual harassment from occurring.

d) Sporting Events

Because of their gender, age, disability or nationality in relation to providing or organising sporting events or facilities.

e) Privacy/Embarrassment

Because of their sex — where embarrassment or breach of privacy could reasonably be expected to happen on account of the presence of a pet-son of another gender.

- f) Promotion of Special Interest or Groups In relation to services which promote for bona fide purposes and in a bona fide manner the special needs of pet-sons.
- g) Drama and Entertainment
 - Because of their age, gender, disability, race
 - If these differences are reasonably required for reasons of authenticity, aesthetics, tradition or custom in connection with a dramatic performance or other entertainment.

h) Adoption/Fostering

- because of their age
- in relation to requirements for adoption or fostering where it is reasonable having regard to the needs of the child.
- i) Wills/Gifts

The discriminatory provisions of the Act do not apply where goods are disposed of by will or by gift

i) Special Needs

In relation to goods or services which are suitable only to the needs of certain persons for e.g. There would be no requirement to provide ante-natal care to people who are not pregnant.

Accommodation

What is prohibited?

The general rule is that there can be no discrimination on the specified grounds in relation to:

- Disposing of any estate
- Terminating a tenancy
- Providing accommodation
- . Ceasing to provide accommodation.

The premises or accommodation must be available to the public generally or a section of the public.

 - Sponsorships, scholarships bursaries, and other awards which can be justified with regard to traditional and historical considerations.
 - -The allocation of places under a student exchange agreement between institutions here and those abroad.

 (These exceptions are without prejudice to the rights of a person who may have refugee status under the Refugee Act, 1990).
- 5) Mature Students
 - A university or other third level institution may provide different treatment in relation to the allocation of places to mature students.
- 6) Sporting Facilities and Events Educational establishments may provide different treatment that is reasonably necessary on the gender, age or disability ground in relation to the provision or organisation of sporting events or facilities.
- 7) Disability = Presumption of Mainstreaming

 Educational establishments can treat students with disabilities differently (apart from the nominal cost exemption) only if the disability is making the provision of educational services impossible to other students or having a seriously detrimental effect on that provision.

Discriminating Clubs

The specific provisions relating to clubs refer to bodies that have applied for or hold a certificate of registration under the Registration of Clubs Act, 1904 to 1999. This registration allows clubs to sell alcohol to members and certain visitors. Unlike the provisions in relation to goods and services, the Equal Status Act. 2000 does not ban discrimination outright.

In general, a club will be treated to be a discriminating club if:

- It has a rule, policy or practice which discriminates against a member or applicant or
- 2) A person involved in its management discriminates against a member or applicant in relation to the affairs of the club.

This include issues of admission, terms and conditions of membership, terminating membership and making reasonable accommodation for members with disabilities (subject to nominal cost exception).

hat is allowed

A club will not be considered to be a discriminating club by reason only that:

- 1) If the principal purpose of the club is to cater only for the needs of persons of particular group from within the nine grounds.
- 2) It confines benefits or privileges to particular categories of Age or Gender where it is not practicable for those outside the category to enjoy the benefit or privilege at the same time as members within the category. The clubs must make arrangements to offer the same or a reasonably equivalent benefit or privilege to those members outside the category.

- 3) It has different types of membership, access to which is not based on any discriminatory ground.
- 4) It seeks to eliminate past discrimination by offering particular fee rates or membership arrangement to persons of a particular gender, by reserving places on the management board etc
- 5) It provides reasonably necessary different treatment to members of a particular gender, age, disability, nationality or national origin as regards sporting facilities or events.

Any person including the Equality Authority can apply to the District Court for a declaration that a club is a discriminating club. If it is found to be a discriminating club and it is the first such order made against the club the court can suspend a club's certificate for a period of up to 30 days. The effect of the suspension is that the club cannot sell alcoholic drinks. While a second or subsequent determination that a club is a discriminating club remains in effect, no certificate of registration shall be granted or renewed. Employees of the club should not be disadvantaged by this order.

- there is an appeal to the Circuit Court
- a club can apply to the District Court for a declaration as to whether it remains a discriminating club.

General Exemptions

What is allowed?

- I) The most important general exemption provides that nothing in the Act shall prohibit the taking of any action that is required under:
 - (a) Statutory provision or court order or
 - (b) Any act done or measure adopted by the EU Or
 - (c)Any international treaty which imposes an obligation on the state.

Only actions that are mandatory are covered. Where the measure leaves some discretion the anti-discrimination rules do apply.

- 2) A provider of good/services, or a person providing accommodation or related services, can refuse service/accommodation to a person if a reasonable individual, having the knowledge and experience of the provider, would form the belief that the provision of service/accommodation to the person would produce a substantial risk of criminal or disorderly conduct or behaviour, or damage to property in or around the area where the service is provided.
- 3) The different treatment of a person does not constitute discrimination where the person is treated solely in the exercise of a clinical judgement in connection with a diagnosis of illness or his/her medical treatment.
- 4) Treating a person differently does not constitute discrimination if the person:
 - is incapable of entering into an enforceable contract or
 - is incapable of giving informed consent
 - and for that reason the treatment is reasonable.

Equality Authority

The Equality Authority can provide information and advice to the public and in particular to buyers and sellers of goods and services, clubs, people who can provide and obtain accommodation, students and educational establishments, employees, trade unions and employers, It may, at its discretion, provide a strategic legal service by assisting people bringing claims.

Making a claim

Anybody wishing to make a claim of discrimination must notify the person against whom the claim is being made in writing within two months of the incident. This notice must identify the nature of the claim and the intent to seek redress. In exceptional circumstances the two-month time limit may be extended for up to another two months. (The complainant who wishes to obtain material information must do so in the written notification).

If there is no reply or if the reply is unsatisfactory the complaint should be referred to the Office of the Director of Equality Investigations, 3 Clonmel Street, Dublin 2. This must be done within six months of the incident. In exceptional circumstances this may be extended for up to a further six months.

The Office of the Director of Equality Investigations can, with the consent of both parties, appoint a mediation officer or can investigate the matter. If there is a finding in favour of the person making a complaint, compensation of up to £5,000 can be ordered and a course of action can be required of the person against whom the complaint was made.
